Marvelous Book on

Ways of Nature

All Over Earth

NATURE'S WAYS, by Roy Chapman Andrews, Crown Publishers, Inc., New York.

The sub-title of this book is, "How Nature Takes Care of Its Own," and I hasten to report that the text is as fascinating as the title — not to mention 72 full-color plates and 72 black-and-whites. Andre Durney and others drew the illustrations, while top-notch wildlife cameramen furnished the photographs.

Mr. Andrews is world famous as director of the American Museum of Natural History and has personally gone into the Gobi desert, and the other far corners of the earth many times in his quest for accurate information on animals and plant life.

His book describes how the various creatures of the land, sea, and air have changed with the years to enable them to survive in their particular medium and locality. Sea creatures sometimes desert the water and adapted themselves to life on land, and some land mammals went to sea — notably the whale and porpoise, warm-blooded animals which give birth to their young, despite outward resemblance to egg-laying fish.

And sometimes, by a strange coincidence of climate and geography, a creature comes down to earth, virtually unchanged from the era of the dinosaurs millions of years ago, when the earth was a steamy jungle. Such a creature is the giant lizard still to be found on the island of Komodo in the Dutch East Indies. Mr. Andrews reports he grows to be 10 feet long and weighs up to 250 pounds — a meat-eating killer who still roams the jungle just like his dinosaur kinsman of a million years ago.

And then there is detailed information in this book about the life and characteristics of everyday varmints you and I are personally acquainted with. Now about the rattlesnake . . . I learn from this book that the secret of a rattlesnake's strike is not his sight, or even his sense of smell; what guides him in his deadly thrust is a small pit located in his head between the nostril and eye.

"This pit contains a thermostat of nature's own manufacture. The rattlesnake is warned of a warm-blooded animal's approach by the rise in the thermostat.

Remarkable book, this one — you'll have difficulty laying it down in the wee hours of the night.

U.S. Seems to Have Solved Atom Secret

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States seemed today to have solved the secret of making nuclear weapons of almost unlimited power and to have tapped a virtually limitless source of atomic raw material.

The dramatic advances in American atomic know-how were chalked up in two events:

1. The detonation at the Nevada proving ground of a nuclear fission device of such fierce heat and force that it appeared to end the quest for a trigger to fire a super-destructive, full-scale hydrogen bomb. Scientists think that, unlike the standard fission weapon, there are virtually no reasonable bounds to the energy which could be released from the fission explosion of a hydrogen bomb.

2. Announcement of success in a project to produce as much or more fissionable material than is used up in the "burning" of fuel in an atomic furnace or reactor. This "breeder" process means that the practically non-fissionable Element 238 of uranium — available in much greater supply than fissionable U-235 — can produce plutonium, a highly fissionable substance. The success at the Idaho atomic reactor test station could point to an era of atomic abundance in the nation, for peace or war.

Senators Told Plane Cutback Calculated Risk

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg told senators today the proposed Air Force cutback would reduce the strategic air command — intended to deliver global atomic attacks — below the limits of an acceptable "calculated risk."

The four-star Air Force chief read from a "top secret" cable by Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, commander of the Strategic Air Command, saying a proposed reduction below 57 wings would be "an extension of the calculated risk to a point where it made it no longer acceptable to the security of the United States and its allies."

The Senate Appropriations subcommittee, before which Vandenberg began his third day of testimony, had been told the cutting of the long range Air Force goal from 143 to 120 wings would hold the SAC to 52 wings.

Vandenberg, who is retiring at the end of this month, has been outspoken in criticism of the Eisenhower administration plan to aim at a 120-wing force, with from 30 to 75 planes in a wing, by December 1955. He contends the 143-wing goal set up under the Truman administration is the absolute minimum for safety, despite assurances from the President the nation's actual air power will be maintained as needed.

Englishmen Have That Yearning Same as Always But the Crust Seems to Be a Little Thicker

By HAL BOYLE

LONDON (AP) — What is an Englishman?

To American gagwriters, he is a fellow who wakes up in the morning and asks his wife:

"What century is it?"

In vaudeville he is two fellows with monocles and drooping mustaches. The first mumbles through his bristles, "I say," and the second stutters back, "er, ah, uh, er, ah, uh. I were you more English, old boy, you wouldn't be able to understand me."

In joke books the Englishman boards a train going from London to Edinburgh, and a stranger in the compartment says, "nice weather we're having." As the Englishman leaves the train at Edinburgh, he turns to the stranger and snaps, "chatterbox."

These are outworn stock caricatures, of course. But many Ameri-

Sixty-nine 4-H Club boys and leaders returned late yesterday afternoon from a two-day Forestry and Game Conservation Camp on the Burton J. Ellis farm, 14 miles northeast of Hope.

Three appreciation and identification, fire control, general forestry management, squirrel, deer and other wild game of the area were studied. Fishing, swimming, boxing, cooking-out and sleeping out in the woods were the added features enjoyed by the boys.

Buster Denton, District Forester of the Arkansas Forests and Parks Commission with headquarters at Delight, demonstrated fire protection using equipment by his department in suppression of fires. The boys were shown the damage caused by fire in the pine woods.

Harold Howell, Extension Forester of Little Rock, led the boys in the identification of the trees found on the Ellis farm with their use. Each boy selected and mounted leaves from a minimum of five species of trees identified. Billy Collins received the award for the nearest guess as to the age of certain pine trees.

Quail, game and fish demonstrations were presented to the club youth by representatives of the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission under the direction of Lester White, Project Leader in quail conservation in this section of Arkansas. Assisting Mr. Wade were: Dale Bonds, Project Leader with Muskra and Beaver; Homer S. Whalley, Assistant Project Leader in Quail Conservation; and E. J. Barham, Hempstead County Game Warden.

Wildlife film showing certain fish and game as found in Arkansas and photographed by Tom Mull, Educational Director, Arkansas Game and Fish Commission, were shown by George Purvis, Assistant Director to Mr. Mull. The film were shown on the spacious lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Burke. Fifty or more friends of the area with the 4-H Club boys observed and enjoyed the showing and comments of Mr. Purvis.

Travis England of Shover Springs and a student at Southern State College, Don Ray Brown, County 4-H Club Council president, and Garland J. Kidd, a 4-H Club leader of Spring Hill, assisted Oliver L. Adams, County Agent, in the organization and direction of the two-day camp.

Ronny Williams of Spring Hill 4-H Club was awarded a quality pocket knife presented by Warren Gunter of Gunter Lumber Co., through Mr. Denton. Ronny scored high in an information quiz covering the forestry part of the camp.

Transportation to or from the camp was provided by Claude Sutton of Sutton Livestock Commission Company, Bill Tolleson, International Harvester dealer, Garland J. Kidd, and County Judge U. G. Garrett. Other transportation facilities made available for use if needed were owned by Hope Feeders Supply and Moore Bros. Market.

The Club boys thank all who assisted with the camp and especially Mr. Ellis, owner of the camp site.

Additional Dairy Producers in Hempstead County Sought by Two Milk Companies

Hempstead county dairymen were discussed by the Dairy Committee of the Hope Chamber of Commerce last night in the Chamber office. Committee chairman Paul Tolleson presided with members Lynn Franks, Lowell Robertson, Audrey Wilson, Vernon Brown, Claude Sutton, E. W. Copeland, and Tom Franks present.

Midwest Dairy and Borden Milk Company have both stated that greater production is needed and desired in Hempstead county beginning this fall. The Borden Company would like to add twenty to twenty-five new producers in Hempstead county and Midwest would like to add ten to fifteen new producers in the county. The Dairy Committee unanimously feels that the prospects of establishing thirty to thirty-five additional farms in Hempstead county is a genuine lift to agricultural economy.

In the period from October 1, 1951, approximately 30 Grade A dairy farms have been established. The approximate 40 dairies in Hempstead bring an income into this county of something over three thousand dollars annually. The Dairy Committee feels that it is a sound program and that very soon dairymen can be the number one agricultural enterprise in our county.

One of the more attractive features of dairy farming is the milk check that the producer receives every 15 days. It is historically true that dairy areas have maintained a greater degree of economic stability than most other areas engaged in other types of agriculture.

A county-wide meeting will be held in the courtroom of the Hempstead County Courthouse, Thursday, June 18, at 8 p.m. Chairman Tolleson stated that it is the desire of the committee to contact every prospective dairy farmer in the county prior to that date and urge them to attend the meeting. Arrangements are being made for a short movie about dairymen, and representatives of Midwest Dairy and the Borden Milk Company are being invited to attend.

"The Borden Company tells us that other neighboring counties are ready to produce the additional milk needed by them this fall, but that it is the desire of the Company to increase the producers in this county rather than to spread to new territories," Mr. Tolleson stated.

If you are interested in any way in Hempstead County dairy farming, you are urged to attend this county wide meeting in the courtroom Thursday night, June 18.

State Sale of Land Challenged

FAYETTEVILLE (AP) — A taxpayer suit filed here yesterday challenged the right of Land Commissioner Claude A. Rankin to sell some 94,000 acres in 22 counties at $1.50 an acre.

The suit, filed in Washington County Chancery Court by C. P. Taylor of Faulkner County, charged that Rankin and Arkansas lumberman Roy Sturgis had entered in a conspiracy "with the full knowledge that the value of the land was greatly in excess of the consideration paid." The land was sold in 1951.

No Revision of T-H Law This Year

By ROWLAND EVANS JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican leaders have agreed to put off any revision of the Taft-Hartley law until next year, Chairman H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) of the Senate Labor Committee disclosed today.

Smith said he and Republican leader Taft of Ohio will try to get committee agreement on a revision bill, but that neither sees any "imperative necessity" to push it through the Senate this year.

Smith called off a committee meeting scheduled for today after being postponed twice in the past two weeks. The session to draft amendments to the law, is not likely to take place until the week after next.

Smith said reaction to a series of amendments, which his committee staff drew up last month, indicated that neither unions nor management would be adverse to letting the present law stand for another year.

Korean Truce Is Nearer; Military Pact in East With British Suggested

Taft Explains Plan to Beat the UN Veto

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) called today for a military alliance with the British in the Pacific to bypass the United Nations veto in that critical world area.

The Senate GOP leader issued a statement clarifying the views he expressed in a Cincinnati speech May 26 which caused President Eisenhower to say "no," that he couldn't agree with Taft that the U. S. "might as well forget the United Nations so far as the Korean War is concerned" if efforts to obtain an armistice fail.

Eisenhower said the U. S. would have to "go it alone" everywhere it operated single-handedly in Asia.

In an interview before he issued the formal statement, Taft made it clear that any early truce in Korea would likely put him back in the same foreign policy boat with Eisenhower in the Far East.

The Ohio Senator said he is resigned to United Nations participation in the peace decisions which would follow a Korean cease-fire, a course Eisenhower apparently intends to pursue.

But if armistice negotiations fail, Taft indicated in the statement.

Liquor Dealers Petition for Vote on Act

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Wholesale liquor dealers today filed petitions with the Secretary of State for a public vote on an act cutting wholesale liquor markups three per cent.

Dean Morley, attorney for the liquor dealers, said the petitions contained 34,500 signatures. The secretary of state's office said only 23,405 signatures are required to put the act on the 1954 general election ballot.

Act 285, passed by the 1953 Legislature, cuts the liquor wholesalers' markup from 13 to 10 per cent. The difference would remain on the retail price as an excise tax to support district, county and state livestock shows. The state has authority to set liquor prices under fair trades laws.

The Arkansas Fair Managers Association has voiced strong opposition to the petitions circulated by the liquor interests and is circulating petitions to wipe out the whole sale liquor business and create a state monopoly.

Morley said that he believes "we have a sufficient number of valid signatures to place the act on the 1954 ballot." He added that the liquor dealers would be "glad to have anybody check the validity of the signatures."

The price cutting act, which was to go into effect June 11, will be held in abeyance until the outcome of the 1954 election if the petitions are valid.

Lions to Dine Ladies Monday Night, June 8

The annual Lions Club Ladies Night Banquet will be held at the Barlow Hotel Monday evening, June 8, at 7.

A full program is planned with Boyd Tackett as principal speaker. Homer Jones will entertain with solo numbers, while Miss Frances Welschberger will perform her specialty, the pantomime.

Mrs. Alva Reynerson will be at the piano, and Fred Gresham will act as master of ceremonies. Bryan Ritchie of Prescott will install new officers.

End of Fight Won't Drop High Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Undersecretary of the Treasury Marlon B. Folsom said today a truce in Korea would make "no difference whatever" in the administration's plan for continued high taxes.

Prospects for an early end to the fighting, however, prompted strong demands from members of the House Ways and Means Committee for an end to any further thought of extending the excess profits tax beyond June 30 as asked by the Eisenhower administration.

At the same time, Folsom told the committee treasury officials put "no pressure whatever" on business leaders to line up behind the President's request for a six months extension of the unpopular levy.

The undersecretary said he saw no possible violation of lobbying laws or anything improper at all in a series of conferences of Secretary Humphrey and other treasury officials with business leaders on the President's tax program. Testimony that such talks had been

Judge Rules Perry County School Illegal

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — Judge Rodney Parham today held that a 1953 act permitting construction of a vocational school in Perry County was unconstitutional.

He handed down his decision in Chancery Court after oral arguments by attorneys for and against the measure.

He held that the act was unconstitutional because it was passed by less than a three-fourths majority of the House and Senate after the Legislature had appropriated more than $2,500,000.

Parham said the fact that Gov. Francis Cherry had not signed appropriations bills totaling the $2,500,000 at the time made no difference. He held also that it was a local act and in violation of the Constitution.

Suit was brought by Dick Thompson of Eureka Springs as a taxpayer, and hearings were held last week.

Next Session Could End the 3-Year Battle

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN

SEOUL, (AP) — The end of the Korean fighting appeared close today. A fateful truce meeting tomorrow (tonight U.S. time) could almost write an end to three years of war and death.

The Communists were reported to have submitted terms so close to those of the U. N. Command that an armistice might be signed by June 25, third anniversary of this war that has already taken an awesome toll.

Minor details must be ironed out, but "peace fever" was in the air here as well as other Allied capitals.

A high U. S. official in Tokyo said an agreement to exchange

American Jets Shoot Down 8 Enemy Planes

By FORREST EDWARDS

SEOUL, (AP) — American Sabres jet pilots bagged eight Communist MIG jets, probably destroyed one and damaged five in air battles high over north Korea today.

Maj. Vernon G. Garrison, 27, became the war's 32nd jet ace by downing his fifth MIG, the Air Force said.

It was the second time this month that Sabres and MIGs have tagged. One MIG was shot down and one damaged Tuesday.

On the ground, South Korean infantrymen fought with bayonets and grenades to win back Allied outposts which the Reds may claim if an early armistice halts the bloody three-year-old war.

The tough ROKs were fighting hand-to-hand with Chinese and North Koreans at some points along the muddy East-Central and Eastern Fronts where bitter battles have raged all week.

Truce negotiators agreed in November, 1951 that the cease-fire demarcation line would be along a line of contact across Korea. Since then the main battle line has changed little but in recent weeks the Reds have grabbed important outposts in the west and a number of advanced Allied positions in the center and on the eastern end of the line.

Observers said the Reds could be expected to claim the line of contact was south of Allied outposts they have seized — outposts which in many cases guard the main U. N. line.

Taft and Ike May Agree on Policy

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Any early truce in Korea seems likely to put Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) back in the same boat with President Eisenhower on Far Eastern policies despite their previous differences.

Taft, the Senate majority leader, has made clear he is resigned to United Nations participation in the peace decisions which would follow any Korean cease-fire.

The Ohio senator said yesterday if the Communists agree to a truce the resulting "unsatisfactory" terms probably will have to be followed by a large scale information peace conference with both sides reaching the course in Eisenhower and his allies.

Taft indicated he would go along with Eisenhower in this course.

Ike Finds Out If Business Will Back Him

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower finds out today whether his "businessmen's administration" can count on support of businessmen when his policies pinch their pocketbooks.

His advisers were betting that business would come through for his tax program, by putting a reluctant okay on a six-month extension of the unpopular excess profits tax beyond June 30.

The two largest business organizations, the National Association of Manufacturers (NAM) and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, both turned on record opposing the profits tax, were testifying their policy. Both were due to disclose their decisions before a nightfall.

The organizations were approached by Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey and Under Secretary Martin B. Fokem, who developed yesterday, following Eisenhower's recommendation for postponement of some scheduled tax reductions.

Humphrey's activity drew a warning against "lobbying" yesterday from Rep. Daniel Reed (R-N.Y.), ways and means committee chairman and the leading champion of speedy tax relief in the House.

And Rep. Mills (D-Ark) commented that Treasury officials "may well" have violated a national lobbying law which bars federal officials from spending government funds to influence legislation, even indirectly, by means other than appearances before congressional groups.

Kiner Goes to Chicago in Trade

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates traded home run king Ralph Kiner, catcher Joe Mauer, pitcher Howie Pollet and outfielder-infielder George Metkovich to the Chicago Cubs to day for six players and an undisclosed amount of cash.

The Pirates got pitcher Bob Schultz, catcher Toby Atwell and outfielders Gene Hermanski, Preston Ward and Bob Addis. Also the Pirates got the option to purchase infielder George Freese from Springfield in the International League for fall delivery.

The player deal, biggest in the National League this year, was announced jointly by Wid Matthews, director of player personnel of the Cubs, and Branch Rickey, general manager of the Pirates.

The management of both teams advised the players to change uniforms immediately for the afternoon contest between the Cubs and Pirates.

Kiner, 30-year-old native of Santa Rita, N. M., joined the Pirates in 1946 and has led or tied his league in homers every year since — a feat not even the famous Babe Ruth accomplished. He is one of the select group of major leaguers who have hit 300 homers.

Kiner was the first in the National League to reach the 50 home run mark twice. He also holds the record for hitting 40 or more homers in five years.

French Trying to Form Government

PARIS, (UP) — President Vincent Auriol today called in Catholic Popular Republican (MRP) leader Georges Bidault to ask him to try to solve the French government crisis.

Auriol turned to the former premier and foreign minister after the national assembly rejected Radical Socialist Pierre Mendes-France's bid for the premiership.

Following a 30-minute interview with the President, Bidault told newsmen he "will consult my friends and give my answer to Mr. Auriol tomorrow morning."

The assembly action left France without a government for the third straight week as time grew near for scheduled big three talks in Bermuda.

Bidault, a veteran French representative at international parleys, was the fifth political leader asked to try to form a new government since the current crisis began May 21.

held out off accusations in the committee that they constituted at least improper efforts to influence congress on legislation.

At any rate, their discussions with officials of two of the nation's biggest business groups, wrought little change in their opposition to extension of the tax.

Both the National Association of Manufacturers (NAM) and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce decided late yesterday to testify before the House Ways and Means Committee in opposition to the tax extension. They had planned to do so earlier, but cancelled their scheduled appearances and polled their governing boards on the issue after pleas from Treasury officials.

Taft Explains

ment that he has not changed his view that the U. S. "might as well forget" the U. N. in dealing with the Korean situation. He denied he ever advocated "to it alone" policies and did not mention any differences of opinion with Eisenhower.

Taft said the United Nations had proved itself unable to halt aggression. He added that it was "ridiculous" to have nations such as India "which say they are not on the side of the United Nations at all but are neutral" participating in truce and peace decisions.

His statement declared: "How ridiculous that our course should be guided by nations claiming with one breath to be part of the United Nations and with the other to be opposed to the principles declared by the assembly of the United Nations; namely, the driving of the Chinese from Korea and its unification."

Taft said that if the U. S. is able to "disentangle" itself from the U. N., it already has treaties with Australia, New Zealand, Japan and the Philippines "and a very definite understanding with the French in Indochina."

"I think we should have a free hand to form an alliance with the British if we possibly can do so as to how far Eastern affairs should be conducted," he said.

"An alliance has this advantage over the United Nations—that each member can express his views and no other member can veto his action as the United Nations or Secretary Acheson vetoed the hot pursuit by our airplanes in Manchuria."

"I believe we should try to work with Britain in a military alliance in the East, but not one in which they possess any final veto against our policies."

Taft's reference was to former Secretary of State Acheson, who some critics say permitted U. N. allies to overrule a decision by the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff that U. S. planes should pursue attacking Communist aircraft across

Says Christianity Must Join Forces

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A solid front of Christianity as a bulwark against the threat of Communism was urged here yesterday at the centennial session of the Methodist Church's Little Rock Conference.

Dr. John J. Rasmussen of Shreveport told some 600 delegates: "We must join forces to meet the common danger. Only those countries where religion is strong have escaped the danger of Communism."

Dr. J. L. Dedman of Pine Bluff told the ministers and laymen at an earlier business session that church collections have increased $25,812 during the past year.

He said $2,942,341 had been raised by the conference churches during the past year and that total membership now is 91,417 persons. "Average attendance is up about 500 every Sunday, and Church School Day offerings have increased," he said.

Dedman is superintendent of the Pine Bluff District of the Conference.

Mundt Tells of Getting Secret Data

WASHINGTON (AP) — Frank C. Mundt refused today to tell investigating senators whether he was a Communist spy while serving as the $20,000-a-year secretary of the Internal Security Committee.

He also refused to say whether he is a member of the Communist Party now, pleading in both instances that to answer might tend to incriminate him.

But C. A. J. Rasmussen, who denied vigorously to the Senate Investigations Subcommittee that he had a hand in any intrigue aimed at blocking a 1949 revaluation of Austrian currency.

One purpose of the revaluation was to stop Russia from using existing rates to exploit the Austrian economy.

In advance of the hearing, Sen. Mundt (R-S.D.) said the group had obtained secret government records which might shed some light on the alleged intrigue against the revaluation of the Austrian currency.

There has been testimony that Communist Czechoslovakia opposed it and C. A. J. tried to block it. C. A. J. has declared that it is "outrageous and false." He turned up Wednesday to submit to a closed door questioning by the Senate investigations subcommittee, and denied he had been a fugitive, as some members contended.

Several Arrested for Color of Cars LITTLE ROCK (AP) — "Six or eight" Memphis residents have been arrested in Crittenden County, Ark., for driving vehicles painted the color of school buses.

Howard Clayton, chief enforcement officer of the Public Service Commission, Transportation Division, said yesterday that the offenders were violating a 1953 law which says that only school buses may be painted "national school bus chrome."

Clayton said the defendants were driving old school buses loaded with farm laborers. They were fined, but the fines were suspended provided they repainted the buses, Clayton said.

The 1953 law requires all school buses must be painted the "school bus chrome" and sets out that no other vehicle may bear the same color.

The Crittenden County arrests were the first reported here for violation of the law, which provides for fines from $10 to $50.

Flood Waters Sweep Montana

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (AP) — Fourteen counties straddling Montana's Continental Divide country were in emergency flood status today as some rain-swollen streams reached 10 times their usual water flow.

The rain in Northwestern Montana stopped yesterday but not before more fell here in 10 days than in all of 1952. And state and Red Cross officials expect the flood situation to get tougher as waters pour from soaked land into streams.

At least nine communities in the valleys of the Sun River and Belly Creek are involved.

DOROTHY DIX
Long-Suffering Wife

Dear Miss Dix: I was married at 19, and two years later my husband began going out with other women. I became a nervous wreck and finally began drinking. I know it's a poor excuse, and I cost me my happiness. My husband continued to have affairs with others, sometimes leaving me, then begging to be taken back, which I always did. I have long since given up drinking, but he hasn't given up his pursuits. Now, he says he is so much in love with a girl that he wants to divorce me. I love him so much I can't bear to give him up. What shall I do? I am 45, but look much younger. And in spite of everything have always managed to keep my appearance. We have four children, two married, two single.

Describes Atoms as Life Savers

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP) — Atomic energy already has saved many times more lives than the 80,000 lost by atomic bombs exploded over Japan, Dr. John H. Bowers said today.

Bowers, dean and professor of radiobiology, University of Utah College of Medicine, told the American Medical Association (AMA) that the lifesaving has come through the use of radioactive atoms in medicine.

In a speech prepared for the closing session of the AMA convention, Bowers gave some examples of how atomic energy has quietly been saving lives.

Radioactive atoms, which can be traced wherever they go, are in effect making the human body transparent. Doctors can learn where drugs go, how drugs do their good work. They can learn how glands work, even what part of living cells do the work which saves or preserves health.

an unfaithful husband for twenty-four years, yet you still expect to find happiness with him! Your own lapse from grace was unfortunate, but you can be thankful that it was of short duration, and that you overcame the weakness. It's doubtful if this had anything to do with your husband's continued infidelities. He might blame you, but if he didn't have one excuse, he'd find another. He is incapable of loyalty, honesty or decency — a fact that must surely be evident to you after all these years. You can probably keep him by refusing the divorce, but happiness with him won't come until he ends his philandering. Letting him go would bring peace of mind, which you'll never have otherwise.

Dear Miss Dix: I am 18 and in my last year of high school. In the past year I have been going to a church other than that in which I was raised, and would like to join it. My mother, however, objects. Do you think I would be right in going ahead anyway?

A READER

Answer: It would be best for the present if you continued attending your family's church. You are too young to make so serious a decision. By the time you are 18, if you still hold the same opinion, discuss the matter again with your mother, and also seek the advice of your present clergyman, and one attached to the church you favor.

Dear Miss Dix: Though I'm 13,

Behind the Sweatshop Curtain

If all labor were equally paid for the same kind of work in all industrial countries, that is, if there were an economic "One World," there would be no need of any kind of protective tariff anywhere. If all currencies were stabilized so that transfer of goods could not be affected by the exchange of money, there would be no need for any kind of a protective tariff. And to make one further point, if no governments subsidized their industries, so that goods might be dumped into particular countries for political objectives, there would be no need of a protective tariff in any country on earth.

Unfortunately none of these postulates stands up against the facts, particularly against the fact that, by American standards, all labor in Europe is sweated and in Asia is on credit as to be almost unpaid. And to that must be added the existence of slave labor. Slave labor probably also is employed in Soviet China, which is now being industrialized.

Those who are advocating low tariffs or even free trade for the United States do not quite tell the truth. They constantly emphasize the importance of foreign trade to stabilize our own economy and to protect Great Britain from collapse or from being forced to trade with Soviet Russia and Soviet China. That is so small a part of the story that it is the least important part.

What is actually happening is that considerable American capital has been exported to European countries under ECA and by other means for the rebuilding of European industries. Also there are a number of American firms which have been establishing branches all over the world, manufacturing various commodities, some of which these Americans hope to export to the United States. Some American banks export capital from the United States to foreign countries with the hope of manufacturing goods for export to the United States.

This really involves a flight of American capital from the United States with the object of manufacturing goods, made by foreign sweatshop labor, at low wage levels, to compete with American labor, receiving high wages and high fringe benefits. I have not yet studied the relationship of this process of exporting profits to taxes. That is a rather involved matter which will take a great deal of study.

A limited number of American firms can build world-wide economic empires. Most American businesses possess neither the capital nor the experience to engage in this type of enterprise.

Therefore what is called small business in the United States continues to demand a protective tariff, while big business goes so far as to favor free trade. It was never before true in this country that big business favored free trade. Most American industries were built up by the protective tariff, which is also largely responsible for high wages and the high standard of living in this country. The change of attitude has come so suddenly that few understand the real reason until the entire subject is related to export capital and a he flight of some phases of American industry from American labor.

This needs to be studied in all its phases to find a full evaluation of the process and to relate it not only to the tariff but to wage scale and to the American standard of living. The "flight from American labor" may be justified on economic grounds. Already there are signs that Western Germany and Japan are pushing into markets which, after the war, some Americans had hoped would be developed for American goods.

Sweated labor producing the same commodities will always undersell high paid labor—particularly if the savings of mass production are practiced in both the cheap labor and high-priced labor countries. When American capital is exported, American management is also exported.

This is not a subject for high pressure propaganda. It is one that needs to be investigated fully and honestly. It requires a statistical approach by an impartial body which seeks facts and will make the facts known in the national interest. I hit upon it because of my keen interest in the surprisingly sudden support of free trade by American big industry, which has always labored valiantly for a pro-

Detroit Has Prize Rookie of the Year

By BEN PHLEGAR Associated Press Sports Writer

The Detroit Tigers has an outstanding candidate for the American League's rookie of the year, one of the league's leading hitters and a reasonable chance of finishing the season with the worst record in modern baseball history.

As spring training ended Manager Freddie Hutchinson looked over his Tigers, who had finished 45 games behind the winning New York Yankees last year, and declared:

"We're not a last place outfit."

In Hutchinson's favor have been Shortstop Harvey Karp, one of the most promising first-year men in either league, and a heavy hitting lineup headed by Bob Feller at 312.

Yet today, with more than a third of the season gone, the Tigers have lost 34 out of 44 contests and are 21½ games out of first place.

Detroit lost twice yesterday to the Athletics, 11-2, and 9-6, running its present winless string to 12.

The second game was decided on a homer by Cass Michaels in the 10th and marked the 12th time this year that Detroit has been beaten in the last inning.

At the other end of the league the Yankees continued their winning streak at the expense of the Chicago White Sox with a 9-5 decision in 10 innings. The Yankees now have taken seven in a row, equalling their best 1952 winning string.

Cleveland whipped the Boston Red Sox, 6-1, and Washington mopped up on the St. Louis Browns, 10-1.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, who hadn't hit a home run in two games, broke out with four yesterday against Milwaukee and defeated the Braves, 10-5. The loss

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, K.P. — Tom Tannas, the most articulate of Ezzard Charles' commentators, was prepared to go before the New York State Athletic Commission today and demand that the former heavyweight champion be matched against Roland La Starza next month, the winner to challenge Rocky Marciano in September.

The expectation was that Tannas would get nowhere. Jimmy Douglas, manager of La Starza, states emphatically that his tiger will not fight Charles or his tiger else before he is given his long overdue return crack at Marciano, who beat him on a split decision three years ago. IBC, the promotional octopus, realizes all too well that a Charles-La Starza bout might prove such a clincher that nobody would wish to see either of them fight Marciano.

Both the champion and his manager, Al Weill, have said they would prefer to give La Starza the first shot. Not necessarily, however, in September. They have made the painful discovery that any further fighting Rocky does this year would be for the almost exclusive benefit of the federal treasury. It is a tough problem to lick and it remains to be seen whether, under such circumstances, the commission can force a champion to defend his title every six months.

The crowning mystery of the baseball season to date is the failure of Stan Musial to hit at anything approaching his normal gait. But for the abject fall-down of "The Man" the St. Louis Cardinals might well be leading the National League today.

For five of the past seven seasons Musial has been the best hitter in his league and, in the opinion of many experts, the greatest ball player in the game. All of a sudden he appears to have lost it. Day after day for nearly two months the baseball world has waited for the Red Bird beauty to begin lashing the ball again. Opposing pitchers are the most puzzled of all.

If you had been given a choice at the start of the campaign to add either Musial or his teammate, Red Schoendienst, to your club, you know which of them you would have taken. Yet, the last official averages showed Red hitting .377, Musial .276. Still wanna be a baseball manager?

Seven hits and a walk, clinaxed by Ray Noble's three run homer, enabled the Giants to score seven times in the eighth inning against Cincinnati. Hoyt Wilhelm made his 23rd relief appearance for New York and picked up his fourth victory. All of Cincinnati's runs were homers — two by Ted Kluszewski and one by Roy McMillan.

Washington moved into a third place with Chicago by whipping the Browns. The Senators lashed three St. Louis pitchers for 15 hits including a homer and a single for Mickey Vernon.

Brooklyn got its long ball attack going against Milwaukee as seven of the 11 hits went for extra bases. Max Surkont, who had won six straight, was tagged with his first loss. Bobby Morgan, Duke Snider, Gil Hodges and Carl Furillo hit Brooklyn homers.

Johnny Wyrostek singled home Richie Ashburn with the winning run to give the Phils their third victory in a four game series with the Cardinals.

Ralph Kiner, playing his first game for the Cubs, got a double. Seven hits and a walk, clinaxed by Ray Noble's three run homer, enabled the Giants to score seven times in the eighth inning against Cincinnati. Hoyt Wilhelm made his 23rd relief appearance for New York and picked up his fourth victory. All of Cincinnati's runs were homers — two by Ted Kluszewski and one by Roy McMillan.

Cruise with Death

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE

EVERYTHING happened at once, then, and the scene is a blur. Gay screamed again, desperately, horribly. The sound of the screaming came a hammering of metal on the metal door, and Robert's voice shouting:

"What's going on in there?"

"I fired at the door just over the guard's head."

My shot, which I had placed pretty close, but high enough to miss anyone who might be outside, made the guard drop to the floor. The leader might be waiting for a silver bullet, but he plainly believed in the authority of lead. The door burst open and Robert rushed in, followed by Brown and the doctor. They had armed themselves with a curious collection out of the Captain's tool box. Randolph clutched a spanner, Brown a wrench, Robert a heavy lever.

When Robert saw the others, and us at the end of the room, he came to a surprising stop, and spread his arms to check the rush of his companions. He spoke in French, mixed with words in some language which I did not know he knew.

"To my astonishment, the leader made no sign of strange gesture or speech, but saluted, and half bow. Robert produced a scolding tone with some effect."

"You fools! You are planning a great wrong. The storm is angry with you. Listen, and you can hear it growing worse."

In the silence we could indeed hear that the oldrich crying of the wind had started up again. The ship too was wallowing more heavily.

"Silence! La poutre blanche," the leader said, but there was some uncertainty in his tone.

Robert made the most of it. "You are mistaken. I call to the storm and I know."

The leader glowered at him, but two of the Haitians looked relieved, as if the affair were going faster than they had bargained for and they welcomed a check. The hulking guard loomed behind him, his head down, his arms hanging, apparently uncertain whether to charge them or to shamble off.

Robert had caught their attention and I breathed more freely, but the cook was not to be put off. Now he snarled, "Don't listen to him. Can't you see he only wants to get around us and finish us off?"

"No such thing," said Robert. "We need every man to run the ship. You should all go back to your places."

The leader rolled his eyes around the room, noted the hesitation of his followers, and felt that he had lost the odds. He made Robert a gesture of submission, and then a peremptory circle with his bent arm, calling his crew around him. And that was the end of the matter, at least for now.

Unfortunately, just at that moment, Gay caught sight of a new face in the doorway.

"Larry!" she screamed. "Larry! Help! They are trying to kill me!"

How Big Is A Minute?
By WARREN PAGE
Shooting Editor

This shooting business, much of it at least, is conducted in a jargon as unintelligible to the average man — and to every woman — as the tongue of the ancient Hittites. Part of the fun for gun nuts, suppose, is babbling glibly minutes of angle, pressure-time curves, semi-elliptical rifling, or electronic counter chronographs. All of which is so much trivia on the lobbies to those who don't savvy gun gab.

But there's one basic term which every man approaching a rifle how ever gingerly had better come head thoroughly. That's a minute of angle, or the angle in shooting formed by two lines that form a common center spread apart so slowly that they are one inch apart at 100 yards.

But riflery is a game of precise niceties, small measurements. Hen ce, if a rifle will keep all its shots inside a circle of an inch radius at 100 yards, it's a minute of angle gun, which is right good in any circles!

The angle keeps opening up at the same rate, of course, so that a minute of angle spans two inches at 200 yards, ten inches at a 1000. Right here you begin to see how the idea of the minute of angle can be useful in estimating distances, ranges if you prefer.

For example, Bill Weaver makes some of his telescopic rifle sights with two horizontal crosswires in the aiming device. The distance between them is six minutes, or six inches at a hundred, twelve at two hundred, and so on out.

If the body of a buck deer broad-side just about fills the space between those crosswires, he's at some three hundred yards a respeciale buck being about eighteen inches deep through the chest. Handy, eh? If you know the size of the animal, that is.

The calibrations on sights are related to the minute. For example, most good receiver peep sights are so built that adjusting the peep hole in a given direction by one click of the knob will shift the imaginary line through the sights one quarter of a minute or one red yard target. Hence if you found that your bullets were landing two inches below where you wanted them at that range, you'd raise the peep by eight clicks, eight quarters of a minute or two inches. If you were shooting at only fifty yards, each click would be worth only half as much, so to get two inches of movement you'd need sixteen clicks, sixteen eighths of a minute — two inches.

Easy, eh? Or do you need an aspirin before we start on pressure-time curves?

Christianity MUST Win! . . . CHRISTIANITY WILL WIN!

CONSIDER HER WAYS

*"Go to the Ant, thou sluggard; consider her ways, and be wise," Prov. 6:6.
Jesus condemned the man who buried his talent. He said, "Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work." When skies are clear the ant stores up food for wintry days while the sluggard sleepeth on. If the ant* must make preparation for her future, then it is all the more important that man do so. Jesus said, "the Father worketh hitherto and I work." Paul said, If a man will not work, not to let him eat. Fruitless trees must be cut down. The greatest work is work for God. Are you a worker or a drone in your church? This is the day of salvation. God says, "Son, go work today in my vineyard, for the night cometh when no man can work." The ant is industrious, the true Christian is that way, too. Consider Her Ways and Work.
